Read the following passage, then choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

A few years ago, while I was on holiday in Sinai near Saint Catherine, I stopped for the night in a small desert village. It was a poor place, and there was no real hotel, but the owner of a local restaurant, Mr. Hassan, kindly offered me a bed for the night.

"Please wait here," he said, pointing to a wooden table outside. "I'll prepare your room."

The evening was beautiful. The sun was setting behind the rugged mountains, and the stars were just beginning to appear. Families were lighting small fires to cook their evening meals, and the pleasant smell of wood smoke filled the cool desert air.

Then I realized I was no longer alone. An old man with a long white beard had quietly sat at the table beside me. His clothes were dusty and almost in rags.

"How can I help you?" I asked.

"Let me tell your fortune, sir," he said.

I laughed. "I don't believe in that kind of thing." But he gently held my hand and refused to let go. "Very well," I said. "First, tell me about my past. If you can do that, I'll let you talk about the future."

He read my palm lines in silence and then began to describe my childhood in Alexandria, my family, and even places where I had lived and worked in other cities. Every word was true!

"Stop!" I cried. "How do you know all this?"

"I know about the past, the present, and even the future," he whispered. "Do you want to hear it?"

I hesitated. Just then, Mr. Hassan returned. "Your room is ready, sir. Were you talking to someone?"

I looked around, but the old man had vanished. The owner smiled, "Oh, that must be Mahmoud, the village mysterious man. He always thinks he can tell fortunes!"

12. What is the central idea of the story?

a) The narrator's holiday in Saint Catherine was boring.
b) The narrator's holiday took an unexpected turn.
c) The restaurant owner prepared a delicious meal.
d) A horrible holiday the narrator would always remember.

13. Where did the narrator first meet the old man?

a) Inside his hotel room

c) Outside the restaurant
d) In the village market

14. What did the restaurant owner call the old man?

a) A fortune-teller
b) The village mysterious man
c) A holy man
d) A tourist guide

15. Which of the following can summarize the middle part of the story (the meeting with the old man)?

a) The narrator met an old man who accurately told him about his past and claimed to know the future.
b) The narrator stayed in a hotel where a kind owner prepared his room and made his dinner.
c) The narrator spent the evening watching the sunset and smelling the wood smoke.
d) The narrator believed in fortune-telling and asked the old man to predict his future.

16. The event that changes the narrator's opinion about the old man is when…

a) he offered to tell the future
b) the restaurant owner returned
c) he revealed the narrator's past
d) the old man disappeared

17. When the old man described the narrator's childhood, he was………

a) angry and disappointed
b) excited but shocked
c) entertained but terrified
d) doubtful and nervous

18. Throughout the story the narrator's feelings towards the old man changed from……

a) fear to anger
b) disbelief to surprise
c) respect to hatred

d) sadness to happiness

19. What is the most likely reason the old man disappeared before Mr. Hassan returned?

a) He didn't want Mr. Hassan to see him.
b) He was a traveler who left to find food.
c) He was only in the narrator's imagination.
d) He went to get the narrator's room ready.

Read the following passage, then choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

In recent decades, the world has faced serious environmental challenges such as climate change, air pollution, and the depletion of natural resources. As a result, many countries have turned to renewable energy sources as a sustainable solution for the future. Renewable energy comes from natural sources that are continuously renewed, such as sunlight, wind, water, and geothermal heat.Unlike fossil fuels, these sources do not produce harmful greenhouse gases when used to generate electricity.

One of the most popular forms of renewable energy is solar power. Solar panels capture sunlight and convert it into electricity through a process known as the photovoltaic effect. The cost of solar technology has dropped significantly over the past decade, making it more accessible to homes and businesses. Another important source is wind energy, produced when turbines convert the movement of air into mechanical power. Wind farms, both on land and at sea, now supply a large portion of electricity in many European countries.

Hydropower, which uses flowing water to generate electricity, remains one of the oldest and most reliable energy sources. In addition, geothermal energy, which harnesses heat from beneath the Earth's surface, provides a steady source of power in countries such as Iceland and New Zealand.

However, renewable energy also faces challenges. Solar and wind power depend on weather conditions, while building large dams for hydropower can affect local ecosystems. To overcome these issues, scientists are working on advanced energy storage systems and more efficient technologies.

Despite these challenges, renewable energy offers a path to a cleaner, healthier planet. By investing in sustainable solutions today, we can protect our environment and ensure that future generations enjoy a safe and prosperous world.

20. The main idea of the text is that renewable energy …………….. .
